To Whom It May Concern:

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter in reference to Chris Raimondi. My wife and I recently hired Chris and his crew to paint the exterior of our home through the College Works Painting program. Now that the work is complete, we are thrilled with the results and are so happy that we chose to hire Chris.

From the time we met Chris back in April, we were impressed with his professionalism and his overall concern for customer service. He explained the program to us in great detail and answered all our questions, ultimately making it easy for us to feel comfortable choosing his service. These traits also carried over onto the job site, where Chris wasn't happy with his work unless we were happy. He listened to our advice and concerns and didn't hesitate to do what was necessary to do the job right. I wish everyone I hired to do work for me was like Chris.

What also impressed us with Chris was his ability to work so well with the crew he hired. It was evident that he treated both Mike and Connor with respect and they in return showed respect towards him by working hard and never complaining about what needed to get done. All three of them treated our home as if it were theirs. They truly made a great team.

As I think about the skills, personality, and other traits needed to put together a successful business venture like this, I am impressed by what Chris is accomplishing. It's obvious to my wife and I that he is learning so much and is honing his organizational, management, and leadership skills to succeed in today's world. Not only did we find Chris to be the ultimate leader and professional, but more importantly we found him to be a genuinely nice young man.

Please don't hesitate to contact me if you have any additional questions or concerns.

Sincerely:

Paul Pasko
