One early spring day, Ryan came by my house and said he was asked people in the neighborhood if they have any need of house painters and briefly explained who he was and where he is from.

I invited him in because he was courteous and friendly. I am a king of a person who believe the first impression tells a lot about somebody. Also I thought it was a good idea to help a college student.

His presentation was excellent. Covering all and succinct.

My wife and I were really impressed by the way he presented himself, a college freshman.

We decided to hire him and were told the job would begin in late May/early June.

He was a man of his works.

He called us a few time to ask us if there were any questions before the work began and let us know how he was working the schedule.

During the work he and his crew impressed us again!

Ryan took time to show us the color of paint and to run to the supplier to get what we wanted in no time.

Ryan and his crew are hard workers. Every end of the days messes were cleaned, tools were neatly put away and he asked me if there's anything I noticed.

Than, of course, they did a great job!!!

For an old man from the old school it was a very pleasant experience to watch young men working in such an honest manner.
