Dear College Works Painting Prospective Buyer:

Would like to recommend College Works Painting and especially Ryan Packard's team for your exterior or interior painting job. They painted the exterior trim of my aluminum siding house in early May 2005. My wife and I are very pleased with Ryan's professional courtesy, timeliness of the job, and the finished product.

The contract was signed February 2005 with expectation set for the job to be done no later than mid May 2005. During that three months Ryan called us twice to check out if we had any questions or concerns. We asked for our chosen paint to be applied to a small patch on the trim to make sure our choice was the right match of which Ryan was happy to meet our request. At the end of their first day of painting Ryan asked me to perform a walk-through with him and one other painter to check their work. I asked for some minor improvements in some areas and those were done the second day.

The job was completed in two days during the normal working hours. Since Ryan wanted to complete the job by our requested timeframe he hired additional staff to get it done in between beginning and end of week rainstorms. Everything was cleaned up extremely well both days. After my own walk through the second day I noticed an area I wanted some additional cleaning and Ryan assured me it would be handled the following day (yes, he did get it cleaned). Overall the job was done very well. My wife and I are very pleased as well as our neighbors are saying very nice things about our house.

Before Ryan stopped by our house during a marketing call in February we were about to give our paint job to Integrity Painting of Pickerington. I was impressed that Ryan spent two hours with us during the estimate and absolutely insisted that my wife and I be present. For this he was willing to do the estimate on Saturday morning. The price was about the same as integrity but I knew that with College Works there was a better guarantee and we were assisting someone who was willing to work hard for his education and business.

In summary, would recommend College Works Painting and Ryan's team for any painting job. As a matter of fact we plan on calling him in the future for painting our bathrooms and master bedroom.

Sincerely,

Gary R. Burkhard
