RE: Our home painting.

To Whom It May Concern:

We have recently had our woodwork outside our home painted by College Works Painting. The manager of the crew was Brandon Barrick and the three painters Josh Mitchell, Tony Aguirre, and Charles Cheatwood.

We are impressed with the entire experience. It was obvious that college students make good painters for several reasons. We were especially pleased that they were able to speak English because we have had problems communicating with painters previously.

The young men were on time each morning at 7 a.m. and took very few breaks. Usually when the outside of our home has been painted in the past it has taken two weeks. They completed the project in four-and-one-half days. I am sure a great part of this speed of getting done with the project was not having to stop and smoke frequently or take lots of breaks.

I appreciated the daily "walk about" with young Mr. Barrick. He was anxious to please us and to change some of our original plans to make the job turn out as good as possible.

In general, our experience has been very good and we will definitely call College Works Painting in the future when the outside of our home needs work done again.

Sincerely,

Robert W. Wing, M.D.
